Reviews

A very awesome book with perfect and lucid reasons. It really is basic but shocks within the 50 percent of the book. Its been designed in an exceptionally easy way and is particularly merely right after i finished reading this ebook where in fact changed me, change the way i think.

One sister, who was living, aged thirty-three years, had tuberculosis. One sister died of carcinoma of the breast, aged thirty-eight years. Her paternal grandmother died of carcinoma of the breast. Previous History.--The patient had a mild attack of scarlet fever in infancy, a mild attack of diphtheria at the age of eight years, bronchopneumonia in childhood, 5 attacks of influenza and laryngitis every winter for 3 or 4 years. She began to menstruate at the age of twelve years. Her periods were fairly regular, once in 23 days. The flow lasted only 2 days. Habits.--Her appetite was poor. She had numerous dietary fads. She would not eat fruits, acids, or cucumbers, for example. She complained a good deal of indigestion. She was a total abstainer, except that she took some whiskey occasionally for medicine. She slept from 4 to 6 hours at night, and frequently took veronal to get that amount of sleep. Her bowels were usually constipated, with occasional attacks of diarrhtra. She had frequent urination--every 2 hours or oftener during the day and 15 times at night. Present Condition.--Six years before she was first seen the patient, while at a summer resort, had what was supposed to be an attack of malarial fever, which lasted about a week and was characterized by chills, fever, and diarrhoea. She had always been nervous. In school she overworked, and during one summer vacation, when she had been a waitress in a hotel at...
