To get data concerning the growth and food cost several feeding experiments have been made by the New York experiment station. Six lots of capons and one of cockerels were fed for several months and several lots of capons for shorter periods of several weeks. Birds of several breeds and crosses were used, chiefly Asiatics, but none of the smaller breeds. No special comparison of breeds was attempted, although for the most part each lot was of one breed. To all of these fowls sweet skim milk was fed nearly all of the time in place of water. Much of the time it constituted about 60 of the total food, supplying generally from 12 to 15 of the total dry matter in the ration. For the eight lots for which records were kept the longest time, from hatching to maturity,...
