Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Oration Delivered on the Eighty-Third Anniversary of the Battle of Minisink, at Goshen, July 22, 1862: In Dedication of a Monument Fellow Citizens: I am to address you to-day in honor of the dead. I am to speak not only of those brave men who laid down their lives for the Government we possess and the homes we enjoy, but of those men also who, forty years ago, met where and as we now meet, and for a like purpose. I am to speak, as it were, in obedience to the command of the dead, whose will, so manifest and generous, we meet this day to execute. But I am also to speak to an assmblage of freemen, convened for such solemn services in a period of their national history, when the Government is called upon to undergo what all nations must submit to first or last - struggle and grapple for its very life; and, while so struggling, demonstrate to the world, not only the strength of Democracies, but the ability and will of such form of Governments to maintain themselves at every hazzard and to the bitter end. I am to speak to living men of living questions, though I am quite sensible that in speaking of these, I am, as it were, to tread upon fires that have not yet collected cinders enough to cover them. But, fellow-citizens, I have no idea that the men of the next generation, in reviewing the proceedings of this day, shall be justified in saying that we did not comprehend the nature of the crisis in the midst of which we are, or the spirit of...
