Contracting officials told us that these negotiated prices applied to subcontracts for vehicle parts as well, preventing overcharges by lower-tier subcontractors. For an 11 million Navy contract for fighter aircraft support, DCMA provided an evaluation of prime contractor and subcontractor costs for certain services. In prenegotiation discussions with the Navy, DCMA described the technical evaluation of the contractors cost proposal, providing a cost summary of what was proposed by the contractor and what was recommended during the technical evaluation. For one portion of the contract, the evaluators questioned the direct labor hours proposed by the prime contractor for managing the project because most (if not all) the actual work would be done by subcontractors. The DCMA technical evaluator found the hours proposed to be excessive, raising questions about the prime contractors value added relative to the costs. Documentation in the contract file stated that although the prime...
